RE: Docket 99P-0033/CP 1

Dear Commissioner Henney:

I strongly urge you to act immediately to protect the health of American citizens by outlawing the practice of feeding dead animals to farm animals. This practice has been proven (in England) to have caused British mad cow disease to be transmitted to humans. Our population in the United States is equally at risk, as we too are feeding rendered meat and bonemeal to our livestock.

This disease is impossible to test for in the early stages. By the time there are symptoms the infected person has become terminal!!

Please give your immediate attention to this urgent matter.

Yours truly,

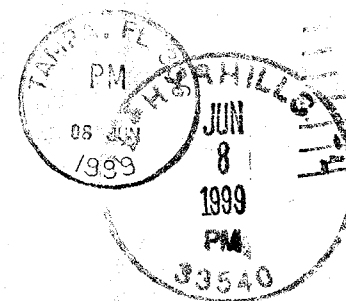

Patricia Todes
